The server is a dedicated server (not shared). Usually when I make a change to my local code, I just upload the new file and click update. I made a mistake and I deployed the code with an old version of codeigniter in production. So it did not work and after reading about it on the Internet, I tried to delete the old file of the codeigniter directory. Problem is I have to wait a lot of time because of a long process It's already 8 hours and still have nothing (There's no record in my access.log file) I want to know what do you think the problem is (eg: the apache is not up, etc) You can ask me if you need more information. Thanks in advance! A: If it's Apache (or nginx or any other webserver): Check your error logs, especially in /var/log/apache2/error.log, and/or error.log. Check your access.log file for errors (404, 403, etc). If you have the time to spare, try to get a sysadmin to take a look at it. If you have iis, you can check what process is using the service, and kill it. Q: What's the optimal number of disks for VMWare ESXi? I am building a physical hardware test lab for testing storage systems. I have three racks with 24 ESXi hosts, each host has 4x10k SAS disks, and I'm planning on a total of around 1.5TB of usable disk space. Are there any rules of thumb to figure out what's a reasonable number of disks to use? Is 4x10k per host reasonable, or does that create contention? VMWare has a blog post on this here: That would mean you'd need the following:
